

'Tis the Season For Gratitude

This is the time of year to observe the bounty of goodness in our lives and give thanks. As I look back at 2008, my gratitude list is very long. I am grateful for our association and friendship.

This year my husband and I wrote our first book, Love Heals Hearts, Transform Your Relationship, which is the charming story of how we met eighteen years ago, and how you can create and maintain a passionate and loving relationship. We also established our company, Love Heals Hearts, which markets and distributes our books, movies, products and services that contribute to healing the planet and radiating love energy throughout the Universe.

Now that I have taken on the identity of an Author, I have come to realize that I have many books to write, four in the Relationship Series, three in the Adoption Series and three in the Optimum Health and Wellness Series with many more to follow. My second book, The Courtship Letters, is nearly finished except for some final editing and formatting. The third book, We're Still Honeymooning!, is ready to manifest.

This fall has been busy with the completion of our Manuscript and Proposal. In mid-October we gave our first dynamic presentation to a small group where we read an excerpt from the book and shared a communication exercise. We received wonderful feedback and rave reviews. We are seeking organizations and groups where we can provide presentations and relationship seminars.

We decided not to self-publish and cancelled the October 25th Book Launch Event. Many possibilities exist; we may have an opportunity to publish with a New York publisher. However, we are intent on publishing with Hay House and currently are looking for an Agent to represent us. If you know of a Literary Agent that submits to Hay House, please contact me right away. Recently I had the pleasure of meeting Louise Hay, #1 NY Times bestselling Author and founder of Hay House.

In November I met Mark Victor Hansen, of Chicken Soup for the Soul fame, at his Mega Speaking Empire Event. I also met Barbara De Angelis and asked her to endorse my book. Barbara is a #1 NY Times bestselling Author with 14 books published in 20 languages, 10 million books sold, has had award-winning television shows, and is an award-winning public speaker. In December I will begin studying with and being mentored by Barbara De Angelis. In February I will attend Mark Victor Hansen's Mega Book Marketing University Event.

I continue to work part-time with Ann McIndoo, Author's Coach of So You Want To Write, and assist many of her Authors. I will keep you informed about my journey in the literary world.

Love and best wishes,
